Common Questions I'm a Hand Lettering Beginner, How Can I Learn? You can start out by reading my post Everything You Need to Know to Learn Hand Lettering. That's a great start if you know absolutely nothing about hand lettering. If you need help practicing your technique or just prefer videos, you can check out this post for my recommendations on hand lettering classes you can take for free: The Best Online Hand Lettering Classes You Need to Take Right Now. What Pens Are Best for Hand Lettering? You don't need any fancy and expensive brush pens to get started with hand lettering. If you have a couple of Crayola markers at home, you're all set! The Crayola marker doesn't have a brush tip, but it's still one of the most popular pens for lettering. If you still want to invest in some quality brush pens, here are my recommendations: Tombow Dual Brush Pen - These brush pens have two sides. On one side, you'll find a flexible brush tip and on the other side, there's a firm fine tip which can be used for adding smaller details to your work or fix minor corrections. Tombow Fudenosuke - This brush pen has a small brush nib that is much easier to learn with than larger nib brush pens. If you're a hand lettering newbie, then this is the pen I'd recommend you get. Pentel Arts Pocket Brush Pen - This brush pen is quite an economical and affordable brush pen. The pen is refillable so when the bristles get worn, you just replace it instead of buying a fully new pen, which makes it last longer than other brush pens. What's the Difference Between Hand Lettering and Calligraphy? In a nutshell, calligraphers write letters, letterers draw them and typographer designs the form of type to make the written word more readable. The other big difference is the tools and techniques used in order to create hand lettering or calligraphy. What Does Hand Lettering Mean? Hand lettering is essentially drawing letters using as many strokes as necessary instead of typing them using a keyboard. It's different from calligraphy, where we use basic strokes to form letters and words. You also often have more control over the letters with hand lettering as opposed to calligraphy. For that reason especially, hand lettering can be a great alternative for projects that are too large for calligraphy, such as large chalkboards and other signage. For These Printable Worksheets, You'll Need: Download the PDF printables below, print them on Brush Pen friendly paper (i.e. HP Premium Choice Laser Jet Paper) and start lettering! You can either draw directly on top of it or grab a piece of tracing paper and go over it as many times as you like. Hand Lettering Tips To ensure you get the most out of your practice time, here are a few tips that can improve your lettering immediately: Hold your pen at a 45-degree angle when lettering Lift up the pen after each stroke Go slow! As you slow down, your strokes will become much more consistent. Read more hand lettering tips here! This paper is smooth to the touch and that means that your brush pen tips will not fray easily. The printer I use is a Canon PIXMA Wireless one that works great for me!Some brush pens- I would recommend that you use the color you least in the pack and start your lettering journey with it. It will fray, but you will learn. For smaller brush lettering I would suggest you start with the Tombow Fudenosuke Brush pens- either soft or hard tip.For Monoline or faux calligraphy, any gel pen would work. I like using the Tombow Mono Twin Tip Permanent Marker, Black Skip the printing, and practice on your iPad!
